This project has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under grant agreement No 770591

Dear COGOV friends,

The first results of the COGOV projects are here. They include a literature review and a repository of real-life cases dealing with innovation, public value, co-production and co-creation, and collaborative leadership.

The first original data is also in! Even more, our partners at King's College London have already analysed it and organised it in a report. You can read about their findings in our blog.

The data-collection phase is well underway. Case studies are being completed, while a survey, focus groups with professionals and design experiments will all launch next year.

In May 2019, COGOV attended the NISPA Central and Eastern European Annual Conference in Prague. We remain committed to sharing our results and ideas. In October, I spoke at the #TROPICO19 Summit in Tallinn, which was organised by TROPICO, one of our sister projects.

Below you will find a summary of our other past and future activities within COGOV. As the research continues, I look forward to informing you about the project's progress.

Keith Shaw
Coordinator of the COGOV project
