

Leading and Managing Co-creation of Innovative Public Value:

A secret recipe for practitioners and some lessons from COVID-19

A two-hour virtual seminar is to be held on 22 April 2021, 2-4PM, hosted by Cardiff University.

Leading academic Professor Jacob Torfing, Roskilde University, Denmark, will present some of the findings from COGOV, a 4-year EU funded research project which examines co-creation and co-production in the public sector in 6 European Countries (UK, Denmark, Slovenia, France, The Netherlands and Croatia).

Join the COGOV delivery team and public service colleagues from across Europe to hear about how you can pursue more meaningful and impactful co-created and co-produced public services.
